

The workplace can be a safe place for someone experiencing domestic abuse.

We all have the opportunity to look out for colleagues and identify the warning signs which may include:

Receiving unusually high number of calls or text messages

Frequent personal visits at work

Wearing heavy makeup to cover up injuries

Avoid going home or increased absences/lateness

Being picked up and dropped off

Increasingly isolated

To report domestic abuse: call 999 if you believe someone or a child is in immediate danger. Call 101 for non-emergencies.
